LICENSE COMMISSIONERS

Several Applicants for Appointment on Liquor License Board.

Although a temporary injunction was granted by the state supreme court prohibiting the State Liquor License Commission from appointing of county liquor license commissioners in hitherto "dry counties the commission is permitted to examine applicants for jobs and this week the following Wood county men appeared before the commission at Columbus and presented their claims to appointment: J. C. F. Wansitler and Patrick J. McVelia, Cygnet; J. W. Stiger, Bradner; Richard McDonald, North Baltimore; Clyde Dewyer, Pemberville; E. C. Rickley, Milton township; James Lehmann and Henry Hughes of Bowling Green.

The supreme court on January 8th will take up the case brought by Hockett, of Bellefontaine, in which he questions the validity of the Home Rule amendment. Should the court decide that the amendment is valid, one Republican and one Democrat will be appointed as Wood county's liquor license board and all applications for saloon licenses will come before this board.

Remarkable Cure of Croup.

"Last winter when my little boy had croup I got him a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I honestly believe it saved his life," writes Mrs. J. B. Cook, Indiana, Pa. "It cut the phlegm and relieved his coughing spasms. I am most grateful for what this remedy has done for him." For sale by all dealers.

INTERNATIONAL

ENTERTAINERS

The next number of the Perrysburg Civic Association Entertainment Course will be the International Entertainers on Thursday evening January 7th, at the High School Auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Judging from the many very favorable press reports and from committees of various kinds the International Entertainers will keep up the excellent record which the preceding numbers of this course have made.

This number is a very diversified entertainment and will surely please everyone as the program, among other features, contains Magic, Ventriloquism, Cartooning and Chalk Talks and Music.

In view of the fact that the preceding numbers of the course have been so good, and if Perrysburg people are appreciative of a course of this caliber there should not be an empty chair in the Auditorium.

There remain including the International Entertainers four numbers in the course. Admission to these four entertainments may be had for just $1.00 by buying a course ticket, which entitles the holder to a reserved seat.

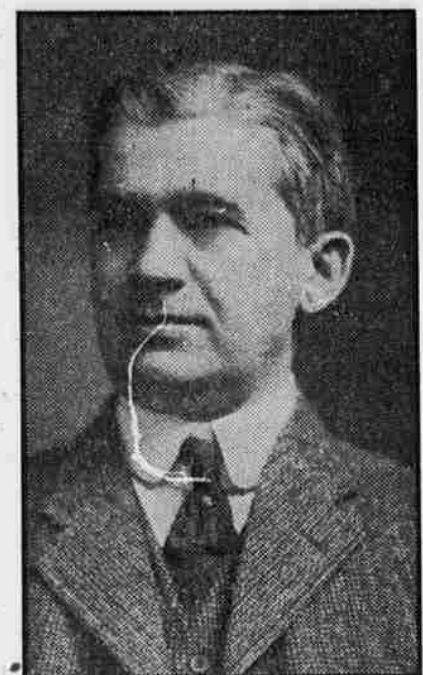

These course tickets may be had of C. P. Champney, R. R. Hartshorn or Geo. J. Munger.

Single admissions are 35 cents and there will be no course tickets offered for sale after this number is over. Children under 12 years, admitted for 15 cents.

CHRISTMAS PRESENT

Given Edward Beverstock By Being Reinstated to Practice Law.

Edward Beverstock has been handed a most appreciated Christmas present by Judge F. A. Baldwin, says the Sentinel. It is reinstatement to the bar of which he was so long a member and from which he was debarred as a practicing attorney in May, 1912.

In granting the petition for reinstatement, which many prominent citizens and many attorneys signed, Judge Baldwin has followed out his well-known humanitarian view of aiding the man who has erred and who shows the disposition to atone for his error. In his opinion reinstating him, Judge Baldwin deals at length with the history of this case. He refers to the indictment for embezzlement and the subsequent agreement on the part of the defendant, the court, interested counsel, and several members of the Wood county bar whereby Mr. Beverstock entered a plea of guilty and submitted to sentence of a year's imprisonment and disbarment.

He refers to the serving of that sentence, less full commutation for good behavior, and to the commendable manner in which he accepted any kind of employment upon his return. He tells of his having wheeled brick for the normal college and to his husking corn for farmers during the past few weeks. "At the best," says the Judge, "his earning from manual labor could afford but meagre subsistence to his large family." "Considering his legal ability, his well known habits of industry and generous disposition towards his family, should he longer be excluded from practicing the profession for which he is fitted?" asks the Judge.

Judge Baldwin says he would in no degree minimize the offense nor approve or apologize for the course of conduct; but for it he has atoned, has suffered manfully and under the philosophy of law has satisfied the law. While this may not satisfy that "Court to which must all finally resort and which makes no mistakes, it must end the earthly and temporal demand for punishment. The victim then has the right to expect the aid of all God-fearing people if he makes an effort to rehabilitate himself."

"I do not underestimate the necessity for maintaining a high standard of honesty and probity in the legal profession, but at the same time must recognize the lamentable fact that, if none but the morally perfect were permitted to practice the profession, the ranks would not be so overcrowded as they now are," says the Judge.

He expresses his faith in Mr. Beverstock's determination upon a better life and says that he should have the practical encouragement which affords an opportunity for honest endeavor along the lines of his capability. Judge Baldwin expresses himself as feeling largely responsible for the order of disbarment and states that he is unwilling longer to bear the responsibility with the possibility that action of this nature might be long deferred or denied.

In extending this relief, the Court says that the way will be left open for those who differ with him and that the order for reinstatement is entered without prejudice to further proceedings in disbarment against him for any cause other than those specified in the original proceedings.

SHERIFF CONTEST

Evidence Will Be Submitted to the Court in January.

At the hearing of the sheriff election contest case on Saturday morning, the deputy supervisors of elections, attorneys and witnesses were all present to investigate the sealed up envelope from East Ross precinct found in a box returned to the election board by the presiding judge of the precinct, says the Sentinel.

The stage was all set; lights low and silence on. The board stood on their right feet and the attorneys stood on their left. Special Master T. F. Conley sat down. To slow music the Master in the presence of all, holding their breaths (and pocketbooks) opened the envelopes and found—a lot of blank ballots.

Mr. Conley has completed transcription of the evidence taken in this contest case. The report is a lengthy one, because of the voluminous evidence. This was submitted to Judge Baldwin today.

The evidence will be submitted later to some other judge. Attorneys are now trying to agree upon some judge before it shall be argued. The hearing cannot take place before January 2nd, thirty days having to elapse from the beginning of the proceedings.

Gus Skibbe will take office as sheriff January first and will continue to hold it until at least after the courts have decided the contest.

STARVING BIRDS

Feathered Family Suffering Because of Snow-Covered Earth.

An appeal has been sent out by State Game Warden John C. Speaks to farmers and other rural residents in northwestern Ohio to feed pheasants and quail, which are starving to death where the snowfall has been heavy because of being unable to obtain food. In this section of the state where there has been an unusual amount of snow, it is reported that a great many of these game birds have perished. "The people in the country districts in the past have always responded promptly to such humane appeals and I am confident they will do the same this time," said Warden Speaks. These birds subsist on corn, wheat, seeds and berries. They are also fond of crusts of bread. Deputy game wardens in the counties where the birds are starving will personally call upon the people to feed them.
